Job family	Education and Research
Grade	8
Reporting to	Head of Department/Group/Division (as appropriate)
Responsible for	May coordinate the work of less experienced teaching staff, casual staff and/or postgraduate tutors or demonstrators
Location	University of Bath premises

The Department is world-renowned for its excellence in research and teaching. The Department of Psychology has more than 80 academic staff and 600 undergraduates and postgraduates. In the past five years, we have regularly placed in the top 5 within diverse national rankings, such as the Guardian league table and the Complete University Guide.

A lecturer (teaching focused) is now required to provide support to our new MSc Clinical Associate Psychology programme. The post will make a significant contribution to the development, training, administration and project supervision involved in the Clinical Associate Psychology programme and, when applicable, the department. There are potential opportunities to work in concert with other programmes (e.g., DClinPsy, MSc Applied Clinical Psychology).

Job purpose

Plan and deliver taught programmes of education and support student learning at undergraduate and postgraduate level (as appropriate).
Play a key role in the developing the teaching culture and student experience of the University.

Main duties and responsibilities

This teaching-specialist academic role covers all aspects of the design, delivery and development of education on the University of Bath's taught programmes. The description below indicates the level of responsibility and scope of the role in terms of the range of activities that may be required. You will not necessarily be expected to undertake the full range at any one time but may be required to do any of them with reasonable notice and support, according to the changing needs in the Department/ Division / University.

Underpinning these activities are an ongoing commitment to continuing professional development and scholarship, where scholarship is defined as engaging with a deep and broad study of the discipline, familiarity with the current boundaries of knowledge and how they are advanced, and active participation in the development of education in the discipline.
