GENERAL INTRODUCTION

PROVENANCE

The Alliance of Religions and Conservation (ARC) ceased operations in 2019 at which time the organisation's correspondence, papers, and library were donated by Martin Palmer to the University of Bath. The ARC website was archived with the British Library.

BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE HISTORY OF THE ALLIANCE OF RELIGIONS AND CONSERVATION

After studying theology at the University of Cambridge, Martin Palmer worked as an advisor on religious education in schools in Manchester. By the early 1980s he was acting as a consultant on religion and the environment to HRH The Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, International President of the World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF). He subsequently set up the International Consultancy on Religion, Education and Culture (ICOREC) to co-ordinate this work at a time when the WWF was seeking to expand its activities in the area. At the organisation's 25th anniversary celebrations held in Assisi, Italy, 25th-29th September 1986, the WWF Conservation and Religion Network was established. Co-ordinated by ICOREC, the Network aimed to strengthen links between religious and conservation groups, develop field projects, improve education and awareness, and foster collaborative engagement. Initially ICOREC and the WWF Conservation and Religion Network partnered with five world faiths - Buddhism, Christianity, Hinduism, Islam, and Judaism. More faiths joined as work progressed.

By 1995, as the scope of its activities expanded, the volume of Network business grew and, in response, the foundation of the Alliance of Religions and Conservation (ARC) was announced during the WWF Summit on Religions and Conservation at Windsor Castle, Berkshire, UK. Funding for ARC came from the WWF, the Pilkington Foundation, and the Mokito Okada Association (MOA) Foundation of Japan with important support from the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and the World Bank. Martin Palmer was appointed Secretary General and ARC took over the work of the WWF Religions and Conservation Network with the objective of promoting, for the public benefit, the protection of the natural environment in accordance with the teachings and beliefs of the world's religions.

Originally based in Manchester, ARC relocated to Bath in 2006. Its work with faith organisations and communities around the world involved planning, developing, and delivering a broad range of environmental initiatives, projects, and events, some relatively small scale and local, others more ambitious across countries and continents. From Mongolia and Syria to India and Kenya, from the protection of scared sites and the restoration of centres of pilgrimage to agroforestry, wastewater treatment and wildlife habitats, ARC facilitated and supported innovative programmes of education and ground-breaking collaborative action for more than two decades.

The Alliance of Religions and Conservation ceased activities in 2019.

OVERVIEW OF THE COLLECTION

Section A, Administration & Supporters, covers the period from 1993 to 2019. It contains formal papers relating to the establishment of the Alliance of Religions and Conservation in 1995, and the subsequent operation, management, and administration of the organisation.

Section B, Correspondence, covers the period from 1980 to 2019 and is divided into three sub-sections. It contains Alliance of Religions and Conservation correspondence which mainly comprises copies of letters to and from HRH The Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, who played a critical role in the foundation of the organisation and remained one its most influential supporters.

Section C, Faith Projects, consists of a sequence of folders containing material relating to the development and delivery of Alliance of Religions and Conservation projects in partnership with different world faiths. The material covers the period from 1985 to 2015 and is arranged alphabetically by name of faith.

Section D, World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF) Projects, comprises material, covering the period from 1989 to 2015, relating to environmental and conservation projects undertaken by the International Consultancy on Religion, Education and Conservation and the Alliance of Religions and Conservation on behalf of the World Wide Fund for Nature.

Section E, Publications, Publicity & Press, contains a range of publications and other writings, publicity materials, and press cuttings relating to the work of the International Consultancy on Religion, Education and Culture and the Alliance of Religions and Conservation, and the work and interests of Martin Palmer. It covers the period from 1980 to 2019.

Section F, Visits & Conferences, contains material dating from 1982 to 2018, relating to visits, conferences, and other events linked to the activities of the Alliance of Religions and Conservation and its predecessor the International Consultancy on Religion, Education and Culture.

Section G, Images, comprises a collection of over 1,500 colour slides depicting a wide variety of objects, events, people, places, and practices associated with faith and religious belief around the world.

Section H, Supplemental Material, contains a small number of additional items donated by Martin Palmer when he visited the Library in February 2025.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We are very grateful to Mr Martin Palmer, Secretary General, Alliance of Religions and Conservation, for his assistance in making this material available. We would also like to acknowledge the support of Dr Tim Powell, Sector Development Officer (South West), The National Archives.

SECTION F VISITS & CONFERENCES F/1

This section contains material relating to visits and conferences linked to the activities of the Alliance of Religions and Conservation (ARC) and its predecessor the International Consultancy on Religion, Education and Culture (ICOREC). It covers the period from 1982 up to 2018.

The events range from small, relatively informal meetings and seminars to large international gatherings. They took place all around the world, from Norway and Greece to China, Mexico and Kenya, documenting ARC's global reach. Many of the events were platforms for the launch of programmes or initiatives closely linked to the work of ARC and its partner the United Nations Development Programme. One of the most important was the World Wide Fund for Nature 25th Anniversary Celebrations in Assisi, Italy, in 1986. (See F/1/2-F/1/17).

The presentation is chronological.

F/1/1 Environmental Education in a Multi-Cultural Society, International Union for the Conservation of Nature (IUCN), Salford, UK, 11-15 October 1982.

22pp typescript compilation of papers presented at the conference.

F/1/2-F/1/17 World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF) 25th Anniversary Celebrations, Assisi, Italy, 25-29 September 1986.

The event included a ceremony, conferences, a series of pilgrimages, a retreat and a festival. As well as celebrating the first 25 years of the WWF, the gathering also started planning for the next 25 years. To this end the WWF sought to establish a working relationship with the faiths of Buddhism, Christianity, Hinduism, Islam and Judaism.

F/1/2-F/1/4 Correspondence, background papers and reports relating to the International Consultancy on Religion, Education and Culture (ICOREC) undertaking to act as advisor on religious matters, and preparation for the event, November 1985-February 1990.

SECTION G

IMAGES

G/1

This section comprises an extensive photographic slide collection. Most of the images, organised into 20 numbered ring binders, have reference codes, and many are labelled 'CIRCA Photo Library', which seems to have been part of the International Consultancy on Religion, Education and Culture (ICOREC). The slides were used to illustrate talks and lectures given by Martin Palmer and colleagues in the UK and overseas. They appear also to have been loaned out to others on request. Circa Religion Photo Library Limited was dissolved in 2009.

The collection represents a significant picture library and image reference resource for a broad range of topics relating to the work of the Alliance of Religions and Conservation (ARC) and the broader interests of its General Secretary, Martin Palmer. The art, artefacts, people, places, and practices of the world's religions are illustrated as well as ARC sponsored projects and events.

Most of the images are not dated but they roughly span the period of ICOREC's and ARC's existence from the 1980s up to the early 2000s. The original order and arrangement of the collection has been preserved as far as possible. Duplicate images have not been retained.
