GENERAL INTRODUCTION

PROVENANCE

The papers were received in January 2004 and May 2005 from Mr R. Bowen and Mrs A. Bowen.

OUTLINE OF THE CAREER OF RICHARD BOWEN

Richard (Dick) Bowen was born in Belgravia, London in 1926. His father was English and his mother was from Wexford, Ireland. His early training was in bacteriology and, after serving in the army for nearly four years, he worked as a laboratory technician. Generally physically active, he had become a proficient skier during his military service and on his return to London Bowen was keen to find an occupation to maintain and improve his physical fitness. In January 1949, on the recommendation of a colleague, he took up judo and joined the Budokwai, the UK's oldest judo club, where he received expert instruction from Gunji Koizumi, Percy Sekine, Trevor P. Leggett and Teizo Kawamura.

In 1956 Bowen was selected to represent Britain at the 1st World Judo Championships, an open weight competition held in Japan. He subsequently spent three and a half years training at the Kodokan in Tokyo. As part of the Kodokan's Kenshusei, an elite group of mostly Japanese judoka, including Matsushita and Watanabe, Bowen was regularly taught by Daigo, Osawa and Kawamura and received occasional tuition from Mifune, Samura and Kotani.

Bowen's close, life-time association with the Budokwai, as a judoka and instructor, and as a committee member and Vice-President, continued when he returned to the UK. He also became actively involved with the British Judo Association (BJA).

Bowen had always been interested in the history and early development of judo in Britain, and in 1990 this interest took on a more definite form when he embarked on a project to document the people, techniques and styles connected with 'the old judo' that Bowen felt may otherwise be forgotten. Over ten years later, with the help and support of friends, acquaintances and fellow enthusiasts, he had painstakingly accumulated a substantial UK 'judo archive'. Sadly, Bowen died before the book he intended to publish was complete.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COLLECTION

The material is presented in the order given in the contents list. It covers the period from ca 1873 to 2005.

Section A, Biographical, contains a very small amount of material relating to Bowen's military service and to his early judo achievements.

Section B, Budokwai, documents the origins and history of the first judo club to be established in the UK. It includes a sequence of general management committee minutes covering the period from the club's foundation in 1918 to 1954 and a series of members' signing-in books dating from 1935 to 1988. The section also contains correspondence and papers relating to a wide variety of training events, instruction courses and martial arts displays organised by the Budokwai. Material relating to the physical premises of the Budokwai and to the administration of its financial affairs is also presented here.

Section C, Research, is the largest section in the catalogue. It comprises a wide variety of material ranging in date from 1873 to 2005 collected together from different sources by Bowen during his research into the history of British judo. The section is divided into three main sequences based on Bowen's original ordering of the material. All three of these sequences contain an eclectic mix of original documents, newspaper cuttings, notes, publicity posters, correspondence and papers relating to all aspects of British and European judo; its origins and introduction, the techniques used in teaching and in competition, the development of an organised network of judo associations and its elevation to Olympic status in 1964. The section also contains some material relating to the routine management of the Budokwai.

Section D, Societies and Organisations, contains material relating to five judo and sports-related bodies with which Bowen was either personally involved or contacted in connection with his research into the history of judo. It also contains a small amount of material relating to judo training events in the UK and in Europe organised by G. Koizumi and the Central Council for Physical Recreation.

Section E, Publications, Programmes and Posters, is composed of material relating to the promotion of judo and other martial arts. It includes incomplete early sequences of several judo journals from the UK, Japan, Europe and North America, and a fairly comprehensive series of display and event programmes and posters from the period 1921-1989. It also contains Bowen's collection of judo-related press cuttings and material relating to Bowen's own writings on judo.

Section F, Correspondence, contains diverse letters written by and addressed to Bowen between 1966 and 2005 in connection with his research into the history of judo.

Section G, Photographs, contains approximately 100 photographs assembled by Bowen in the course of his research work. The photographs range in date from ca 1925 to 1986 and document judo demonstrations and displays, Budokwai social occasions, international judo competitions and judo summer schools. They also include formal and informal portraits of judoka.

Section H, Material Collected by Others, contains a broad range of material relating to the history of judo in the UK collected by friends, colleagues, and associates of Richard (Dicky) Bowen and subsequently donated for inclusion in the Richard Bowen (Judo) Collection.

There is also an index of correspondents.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We are very grateful to the Bowen family and Mr Mike Callan for their assistance in making this material available.

SECTION B BUDOKWAI B.1-B.343

The Budokwai, the UK's oldest judo organisation, was founded by Gunji Koizumi in January 1918 as an amateur society for the study and promotion of 'the Japanese form of culture, sport and self-defence known as judo in such a way that its growth shall be dignified, permanent and free from professionalism'. As well as offering instruction, providing training facilities, officiating at contests and giving displays and demonstrations all over the country, the Budokwai, which means 'the way of knighthood society', also sought to facilitate a better understanding of the mental and physical traditions on which judo is based.

Bowen was closely involved with the work of the Budokwai from 1949 onwards both as a judoka and as a committee member and Vice-President. The material presented here was assembled from various sources and preserved by Bowen during the course of his research into the history of judo with the support and co-operation of the Budokwai.

SECTION C RESEARCH C.1-C.927

This section contains a broad range of material assembled by Bowen during the course of his research into the history and development of British judo. It includes some unique and unusual original documents, such as Gunji Koizumi's passport (C.10), the programme for a judo contest between the Anglo-Japanese Club and Germany in 1936 (C.75), and correspondence relating to the establishment and earliest meetings of the European Judo Union (C.52). It also includes an extensive collection of extracts copied from rare judo publications and newspapers, draft articles, notes and other writings by Bowen and his colleagues and contemporaries, and transcripts of interviews with eminent judoka.

This section also contains research material described by Bowen as 'Technical Notes'. This comprises a sequence of documentation, articles, correspondence, lectures and illustrative notes relating particularly to judo method, technique and instruction over time.

Bowen's methodical arrangement of the material in this section into three main sequences, one chronological, one broadly by theme, and the other focussed specifically on the technical aspects of judo, has been preserved because it reflects both his approach to the research and the overall structure of his book.

	This sub-section contains a wide variety of material collected by Bowen during the course of his extensive research into the history of British judo and sorted, by him, into strict chronological order. It includes copies of letters and papers sent to Bowen by the owners as well as original material. It ranges from key individual documents, such as G. Koizumi's Japanese passport, to more 'routine' collections of records, such as those relating to the day to day management of the Budokwai. The material is presented as it was arranged by Bowen, in chronological order. See also Section B.

E.232-E.357 PROGRAMMES 1942-1989

This sub-section contains programmes relating to judo and other martial arts displays and events held in the UK and abroad. Events represented range from large-scale Royal Air Force annual shows featuring numerous displays of various kinds, to local judo club demonstrations. Many of the programmes have been annotated to indicate names of players and results. As a whole they reflect Bowen's interest in the history and development of judo and the growth in its popularity in the UK. They also document the activities of British judo's early organisers and enthusiasts.

The presentation is chronological.

SECTION F	CORRESPONDENCE	F.1-F.134
------------------	-----------------------	------------------

Much of Bowen's research into judo was conducted via letter. His correspondence with long-standing members of the judo community enabled him to discuss his research and to acquire additional source material and anecdotal information. This section contains Bowen's correspondence with a number of individuals based in the UK and overseas covering a range of martial-arts-related topics including the history of British Judo, the development and presentation of judo in all its forms and the lives of eminent, early judoka.

The correspondence covers the period 1966-2005 and is sorted alphabetically by name of correspondent or corresponding organisation.

SECTION G PHOTOGRAPHS

G.1-G.123

During the course of his research Bowen assembled a substantial number of photographs. Some of these he acquired through his regular involvement with the Budokwai and his ongoing work in the coaching and organisation of UK judo, others were received from colleagues and friends with shared interests in the origins, history and development of British judo. They include pictures taken at annual displays of the Budokwai and various national and international judo competitions as well as images of some of the most prominent world judoka of the 1950s, 1960s and 1970s. The collection appears to include photographs donated by the families of, amongst others, Trevor Pryce Leggett and Harold Hyde.

Bowen annotated most of the photographs, identifying the individuals, venues and occasions shown. In some cases Bowen's notes on the date of a photograph represent a well-informed estimate rather than an authoritative statement.

The photographs were transferred to the Library in two separate donations several years apart. This is reflected in the organisation of the material into two chronological sequences.

PHOTOGRAPHS: SEQUENCE 1

ca 1925-1986

- G.1 Copy black and white group portrait photograph (annotated) showing judoka including twin brothers Harold and Norman Hyde, E. J. Harrison, G. Koizumi and Y. Tani, nd ca 1925.
- G.2 Mounted black and white group portrait photograph entitled 'Oxford University v Metropolitan Police, Juijitsu Teams', November 1926.

Individuals shown include G. Koizumi, S. Nishioka and L. Crewe.
- G.3 Mounted black and white group portrait photograph entitled 'Oxford University v Metropolitan Police, Juijitsu Teams', March 1927.

Individuals shown include G. Koizumi, Y. Tani, S. Nishioka and L. Crewe.
- G.4 Four copy photographs (annotated) re Harold Hyde's participation in various judo events and activities, 1926-1939.
- G.5 Five black and white photographs re judo summer school(s) in Frankfurt, Germany, 1939.

The photographs include group portraits of judoka and a photograph showing a demonstration of judo throws. Participants included G. Koizumi, T. P. Leggett, and Harold and Norman Hyde.

All but one of the photographs are endorsed 'Frankfurt 1939'. It is possible, though, that they are actually slightly earlier in date since it seems a little unlikely that a judo summer school would have been held in Frankfurt as late as August 1939(?).

See also C.56, C.59, C.60.
- G.6 Mounted black and white group portrait photograph entitled 'Cambridge University Judo Team', 1939.
- G.7 Two black and white group portrait photographs showing a party at the British Embassy in Tokyo, Japan, ca 1940.

Individuals shown include T. P. Leggett.

- G.8 Two black and white photographs showing a judo award ceremony endorsed 'Old Kodokan: Shidobashi', ca 1940.
- G.9 Black and white photograph showing three individuals, including T. P. Leggett, seated outside a large building, endorsed 'Internment, British Embassy', 1942.
- G.10 Black and white photographic portrait of T. P. Leggett, nd ca 1942.
- G.11 Three black and white photographs showing demonstrations of judo throws by various individuals, including G. Koizumi, endorsed 'Leeds University course, April 1947'.

See also D.279-D.294.
- G.12-G.14 Black and white photographs re the 32nd Annual Display of the Budokwai and International Judo Tournament: Great Britain versus France and Holland, Seymour Hall, London, UK, 21 March 1949.

See also E.398, E.399.
- G.12 Two photographs showing judo matches being adjudicated by G. Koizumi and T. P. Leggett, endorsed 'In audience at extreme left: Will Bowen, May Bowen, Michael O'Brien, Dick Bowen', ca 1949.
- G.13 Three photographs showing a judo demonstration in progress endorsed 'Leggett and Harold Hyde showing Go no sen no kata', ca 1949.

Although Bowen identified Leggett's opponent as Harold Hyde, it is more likely that it is, in fact, his twin brother, Norman Hyde.
- G.14 Two mounted group portrait photographs of judoka including G. Koizumi, Norman Hyde, P. Sekine and E. Dominy, ca 1949.

Bowen has endorsed these photographs with a record of the match results.

- G.15, G.16 Series of 23 black and white photographs showing demonstrations, at the Budokwai, of various judo techniques by judoka including G. Koizumi, P. Sekine, G. Gleeson, D. Burr and C. Grant, possibly for a publication (?), ca 1949.

Two folders.
- G.17 Black and white photograph showing a judo demonstration by C. Grant and I. Morris, nd ca late 1940s.
- G.18, G.19 Two black and white photographs of re 33rd Annual Display of the Budokwai: Inter-University Contests, Seymour Hall, London, UK, 20 March 1950.
