

Bath Insights Internship – Student Experience & Employability Projects

Department: Faculty of Humanities & Social Sciences

Theme: Student support (Resource review, mapping services, feedback collection)

About the role:

You will be involved in various student experience and employability-related projects, although these are yet to be confirmed. The 2025 intern was involved in:

- trialling the addition of employability-related content in unit descriptions
- researching summer internship opportunities
- writing employability case studies
- conducting a review of the student opportunity newsletter
- contributing to social media content for the Faculty

There will be the opportunity to consider process and service improvements, conduct research via surveys and focus groups, review findings and recommend future actions. All the projects will relate to the strategic pillar regarding excellence in education.

Why this matters:

Your work will support the Faculty's strategic pillar of excellence in education, helping improve student engagement, employability, and overall experience.

Skills you'll develop:

- Research and data collection via surveys and focus groups
- Content creation for newsletters and social media
- Analysing feedback and making actionable recommendations
- Project management and process improvement

Ideal for students who:

- are interested in student experience, employability, and communications
- enjoy a mix of research, writing, and creative tasks
- want to contribute to meaningful improvements in education and student support
