CDAS seminars now available to download

The latest CDAS seminars are now available as podcasts on the University of Bath website.

Post-death control of Digital Assets
21 February 2014

We all know that we'll eventually die but very few people make plans for the entirety of their assets, especially digital ones. This CDAS seminar on the post-death afterlife of digital assets examined how individuals can manage the full spectrum of 21st century property and the challenges posed by the digital world. The speakers addressed everything from management of estates to controlling a person's post-mortem identity. Whether it's passwords, social networking accounts, or online property, the certainty of death opens up an entirely new world for living next of kin to negotiate after a person dies.

Living and Dying in the Fourth Age
24 March 2014

One of the great achievements of advanced industrial societies is that most of their members live to a good age. This moves death into the province of old age, yet most research and innovation around the end of life has focussed on untimely deaths, such as from cancer, suicide or death in childhood. This seminar looked at living and dying, often with dementia and other infirmities, in late old age: the kind of dying many people fear after the long life they hope for.

Get involved
Come to one of our events - all are free, everyone is welcome and you can ask us anything. Can't make it? Ask a question in advance. Bookings and questions to cdas@bath.ac.uk

Visit us on the Parade at the University of Bath over lunchtime on Monday and Tuesday; we want to hear what you would have played at your funeral #BathFuneralMusic. Take our digital afterlife quiz, pick up some information on organ donation, or write down the five things you best want to be remembered for.

Tweet #YODO @DyingMatters. This national campaign by Dying Matters, You Only Die Once, aims to raise awareness about how important it is for people to talk about these issues. You can follow CDAS on twitter @cendeathsociety

Organisations are welcome to send literature for distribution at the various events, please contact cdas@bath.ac.uk for details. More information at http://www.bath.ac.uk/cdas/news/news_0021.html

CDAS Conference 2014: Social Death
07-08 June 2014
Bath Royal Literary and Scientific Institution, Bath
£100 weekend, £55 single day

Our call for papers has resulted in an excellent response and packed programme for this year’s CDAS conference on Social Death. A draft programme will be posted to the CDAS website shortly. Unfortunately, the number of abstracts we have received does mean that there is no space for late papers, but we are happy to consider ideas for posters.

If you would like to submit a poster for the conference, please contact us at cdas@bath.ac.uk with a short (250 word) abstract by the end of April for consideration.

Booking for the conference is now open, and as with all CDAS events, it is open to anyone to attend. Further information about the conference and a link to the booking form can be found on the CDAS website: http://www.bath.ac.uk/cdas/events/news_0010.html

Care and Compassion in Healthcare: Does spirituality have a role?
27-28 April 2014
Sarum College, Salisbury

The British Journal of Hospital Medicine in association with British Journal of Mental Health Nursing, Journal of Health Visitors, British Journal of Nursing and the International Journal of Palliative Nursing have come together to announce their new meeting: Care and Compassion in Healthcare: Does spirituality have a role?

This is a unique event aimed at all specialists working in healthcare to reflect upon their current practice and to consider how care and compassion can be increased in their role and daily routine.

The conference will enable participants the chance to assess their existing practice and to extend their thinking beyond guidelines and routine compliance, so that they can engage with patients more effectively.

Sessions include:
• Setting the scene: Is the healthcare crisis part of a bigger spiritual crisis?
  Reverend Professor Stephen Wright & Dr Larry Day

www.bath.ac.uk/cdas          cdas@bath.ac.uk
• How can healthcare professionals incorporate spirituality into practice? Dame Sarah Mullally, Former Chief Nursing Officer, Department of Health
• Borderlines: madness & mysticism, Dr Isabel Clarke, Consultant Clinical Psychologist
• Integrating spirituality into cancer care, Michael Conners, Acting Chief Executive, Penny Brohn Cancer Care

This conference has been designed to be interactive so that all participants can engage in discussions about how care and compassion can be improved for the benefit of patients.

Places will be limited so make sure you book early. Book online at: mahcconferences@markallengroup.com

The event is free of charge, but please expresses your interest in attending the lecture via e-mail: ann.gibbons@nottingham.ac.uk or telephone: 0115 8230706

Third International Conference of the British Association for the Study of Spirituality: ‘Spirituality in a Challenging World’
19 – 21 May 0214
Ashridge House, Berkhamsted, Hertfordshire, UK

The theme of this 3rd BASS conference acknowledges the experiences of many academics, practitioners and others who are currently seeking to explore understandings and implications of spirituality in a wide range of research and professional practice settings that are often challenged by an outcomes-based rationality.

Keynote Speakers:
• Professor Roger Gill (Durham University)
• Professor Carole Hillenbrand (University of Edinburgh)
• Professor Margaret Holloway (University of Hull)
• Professor Michael King (University College London)
• Professor John Swinton (University of Aberdeen)

Cost (fully inclusive) £550 (£575 after 31st March 2014)

Exploring changing human beliefs about death, mortality and the human body
The 'Invisible Dead' Project Conference
06-08 June 2014
Durham University

This event will be hosted by the Department of Archaeology at the Durham University, and attendance will be free of charge. We will be pleased to welcome archaeologists, anthropologists and others with an interest in death and human remains throughout prehistory and into contemporary society. A full provisional programme and registration form is available from the website.

In addition to the academic sessions (07-08 June), there will be two public lectures on the evenings of 06 & 07 June, with a wine reception following the Friday lecture:

Friday 6th June, 6.30 pm
Prof. Peter Pfälzner, University of Tübingen
“Packed Generations”: long-term funerary processes at two royal burial places at Qatna, Syria

Saturday 7th June, 6.30 pm
Prof. Mike Parker Pearson, University College London
Dead and (un)buried – problems and perspectives in funerary archaeology

Registration forms for the conference and lectures alongside a programme and further information are available on the website:

Association of Bereavement Service Coordinators Conference 2014
‘The Cost of Bereavement: is your service fit for purpose?’
Leeds Trinity University
01 – 02 July 2014

ABSCo members are becoming increasingly aware of the ‘total cost’ of bereavement, beyond the emotional and psychological, within a changing external environment. This conference will explore some of the socio-economic costs and think broadly and creatively about the range of support our services offer.

We invite members to attend with this question in mind, ‘Is your service fit for purpose?’

Keynote speakers include:

- Dr Marilyn Relf, Bereavement Care Lead, Sir Michael Sobell House, Oxford
- Alison Penny, Coordinator, Childhood Bereavement Network and National Bereavement Alliance
- Anne Corden, Senior Research Fellow, Social Policy Research Unit, University of York
- Jan Oyebode, Clinical Psychologist and Professor of Dementia Care at Bradford Dementia Group
- Jan Fish, Bereavement Service Coordinator, St Christopher’s Hospice

Cremation & Burial Conference & Exhibition 2014
07-09 July 2014
Holiday Inn, Stratford-upon-Avon

The Cremation and Burial Conference & Exhibition 2014 invites submissions of academic and practical papers.

CBCE 2014 will be focusing on innovative approaches to improve excellence in all aspects of the provision of burial and cremation services and their development. The goal of this year's event is to continue to bring together like-minded individuals and organisations to discuss important issues and developments in the death care industry. The event will be of particular interest to representatives from cremation and burial authorities, whether local authority or private sector, who wish to keep abreast of the latest developments affecting their services and facilities.

Case studies are sought which address issues in cremation, burial, and related topics. Two sessions have been allocated as part of the main sessions for oral presentations; posters will be presented during the refreshment and lunch breaks.

All papers should be submitted for review to the Administration Office info@cbce.org.uk. For any questions please contact the Administration Office by email or tel: 01543 442174

For further information and full guidance, visit the website: http://www.cbce.org.uk/callforpapers.html

2nd Global Conference: Suicide, Self-harm and Assisted Dying
24-26 September 2014
Mansfield College, Oxford, United Kingdom

This conference brings together discussion of research and practice in three complex areas – Suicide, Self-Harm and Assisted Dying.

Over one million people worldwide die from suicide each year. The incidence of completed suicide is very much higher in males than females, for all age groups and in most societies where recording occurs. A notable exception is China where female suicides equal or exceed male rates. Risk factors highlighted in research into suicide have included poverty, abuse, gender, age, masculinity, sexuality, mental illness, situational trauma, substance misuse, homelessness, unemployment and other adverse life events. Completed suicides leave in their wake a long-lasting trail of guilt, shame and pain.

Self-harm is a direct and deliberate physically damaging form of bodily harm which may or may not be intentionally life-threatening. It is often repetitive in nature and usually socially unacceptable. Self-harm is a risk factor in subsequent attempted suicide.

Patients who deliberately harm themselves have a risk of suicide some 100 times greater than that of the general population. However it may occur as an event or pattern of behaviour with no relation to suicidal intent. The UK is estimated to have one of the highest rates of deliberate self-harm in Europe, at 400 per 100,000 population (Self-poisoning and self-injury in adults, Clinical Medicine, 2002). It is hard, however, to arrive at definitive rates since self-harm is often practised secretly. Like suicide, it carries considerable stigma.

Assisted dying or assisted suicide describes the set of actions by which an individual helps another person voluntarily to bring about his or her own death. Assistance may include the provision of means, such as drugs, or other actions. There is currently intense public debate globally about a person’s right to achieve death in this way, with complex legal, religious, cultural, ethical and practical issues involved. Assisted suicide is legal in several jurisdictions, including Luxembourg, Belgium, Switzerland, the Netherlands and some American states.

We welcome proposals on any of the topics of Suicide, Self-Harm or Assisted Dying from the fields of medicine, psychiatry, nursing, social work, counselling, psychotherapy, philosophy, ethics, psychology, sociology, history, cultural studies, history, law, creative writing, music, art and literature. We also welcome practitioners, not necessarily to submit formal presentations, but to attend and share their experiences of working within the field of care, counselling and coping with all of the above.
