Course Description

Course Summary

Learn how to excel in an international business environment. Develop your management and intercultural skills, work or study abroad and become fluent in Spanish.

Course Description

Gain specialised knowledge of the international business environment and the global economy. Learn the fundamentals of management while studying business and culture in a foreign language.

We teach all units covering language, history, politics and culture in Spanish. This includes some units that focus on the business context. This combination of language and business will help you understand the professional environment in Spanish-speaking countries, preparing you for your time abroad.

Two leading departments deliver this course: the School of Management and the Department of Politics, Languages & International Studies.

Years 1 and 2
You'll study economics, finance and organisational behaviour. You'll also learn about the history and culture of Spanish-speaking countries.

In Year 2, you'll prepare for your year abroad by learning more about working, studying and doing business in Spanish.

Year 3
Spend up to 12 months in a Spanish-speaking country. You'll have the flexibility to choose an International Academic Exchange, a work placement or a combination of both.

Final year

Specialise by choosing from a range of management units. Optional units in Spanish will further develop your sociopolitical and cultural knowledge of the Spanish-speaking world.

Professional Development Programme

Prepare for the career you want with our Professional Development Programme (PDP). PDP includes training and workshops to improve your skills in areas like:

- writing CVs and applications
- job interviews
- language and cultural awareness

If you want to do a placement, PDP will help you find a relevant role and make the most of your time there.

Learning and teaching

Study in an enriched learning environment

You'll learn from teaching staff with backgrounds and expertise in different areas of accounting, finance, business, management and economics. If you're studying International Management with Modern Languages, teaching staff will also have backgrounds and expertise in language and history. Their passion, knowledge and research inspire their teaching. This combination aims to enhance your learning experience.

Contact hours

Contact hours
Timetabled contact hours, which can be made up of lectures, seminars and tutorials, vary throughout your course and between courses but are typically between ten and 12 hours a week in your first year.

Our teaching for this course is delivered through in-person learning on campus, supported by high quality online provision. A small proportion of these contact hours may be delivered online, with the significant majority taught on campus. This may be supplemented by additional activities such as a small number of online learning sessions (not live), skills development sessions, and personal tutorials.

The amount of timetabled sessions on campus in later years may vary based on the options you choose, with a greater emphasis on independent learning. Project and dissertation units will generally have fewer scheduled sessions to allow you time for your independent work - this may also mean the number of hours of timetabled sessions each week will vary within a year.

Independent learning
In addition to timetabled contact hours, you are expected to undertake independent learning and assessment activities. Typically, this might be around 25 to 28 hours a week, and include individual research, reading journal articles and books, working on individual and group projects, preparing coursework assignments, presentations, or revising for exams. After your first year, the emphasis on independent learning becomes greater, for example you may do a final year project.

Assessment summary

The balance of the assessment by examinations and assessment by coursework may depend on the optional units you choose.

A broad range of assessments methods will be used throughout the degree. As a guide, between 40-60% of assessment is by coursework over the duration of the course.

The final degree classification is determined by your second, third and final year marks and each contributes 24%, 8% and 68% respectively.

We can make reasonable adjustments to assessment procedures for students with disabilities, take a look at our Disability Service's pages(https://www.bath.ac.uk/professional-services/disability-service/) for information.
