ABOUT THIS HANDBOOK

This is the 2022-23 Handbook for postgraduate students on the International Relations, International Security, International Relations and European Politics and Gender and Politics programmes.

The contents of this Handbook are accurate at the time of publication, September 2022, but information contained within may sometimes be subject to change after this Handbook has been issued.

The Important Links and Information section of this Handbook contain links to information about the topics in this Handbook and other key topics. It is important that you familiarise yourself with the online information as well as the contents of this Handbook.

Information about the structure of your programme (which units you take when, which units are compulsory etc), as well as key unit information (including learning outcomes, synopsis and assessment), for the upcoming academic year can be found online in the Unit and Programme Catalogues (see Unit and programme catalogues in this Handbook and www.bath.ac.uk/catalogues). You will also receive details about unit content and assessment via the University's online learning environment, Moodle.

You will be informed, normally by your Director of Studies or Unit Convenor, of any further changes that will affect your programme or a unit. See also Unit and programme changes 2022/23 in this Handbook.

While this Handbook signposts information about regulations for students, it does not have regulatory status itself, and the Regulations available online (Regulations for Students: <http://go.bath.ac.uk/regulations> and Assessment Regulations: www.bath.ac.uk/corporate-information/new-framework-for-assessment) are the most up-to-date and take precedence over the contents of this Handbook. It is your responsibility to take the time to familiarise yourself with the Regulations.

If in doubt about what applies to you, or if your circumstances change, please contact your Director of Studies Dr. Mattia Cacciatori, M.Cacciatori@bath.ac.uk, for advice.

HEAD OF DEPARTMENT WELCOME 2022/3

It is a pleasure to welcome you to PoLIS. It's very exciting to be starting a new academic year and to welcome you to our campus. We're really looking forward to meeting you in class and getting to know you better throughout the year. We're expecting this year to run smoothly, but any changes in the country's health situation will be updated on the University's health guidance on the website and communicated to you. If there are any changes, please ensure you follow whatever guidelines are put in place. We've gained a lot of experience in the last years in supporting students and teaching under changing circumstances, so no matter what, we will be here to ensure your success.

My advice to you is to try to keep up-to-date with your lectures, seminars, activities and recommended readings. If you do a little every week it is much easier to have everything ready by the essay deadlines and avoid last minute stress. Please make full use of all the possibilities for contact that we have provided: come to all your campus classes, join in additional live online interactive sessions, and make use of staff's office hours.

In this Handbook you'll find all the relevant links to University services designated to support you with everything from health to finances to careers advice, as well as the key contacts with PoLIS here to support you.

Remember to let us, and especially your personal tutors and Directors of Studies, know how you are getting on throughout the year. We have all gone through quite a lot of upheavals and changes in the last couple of years, so it is understandable that some of you may be feeling a bit tired, or that you may get distracted with the possibility of new activities, so it is especially important that you keep communicating with your tutors so we can help you stay on track with your studies. I have no doubt that together we'll make a success of this new academic year, and that with your enthusiasm, and a little work every week you'll do very well. Of course, university life is about more than your studies, so I'd also like to encourage you to take advantage of some of the activities that the Student Union, societies and sports clubs have been working on all summer.

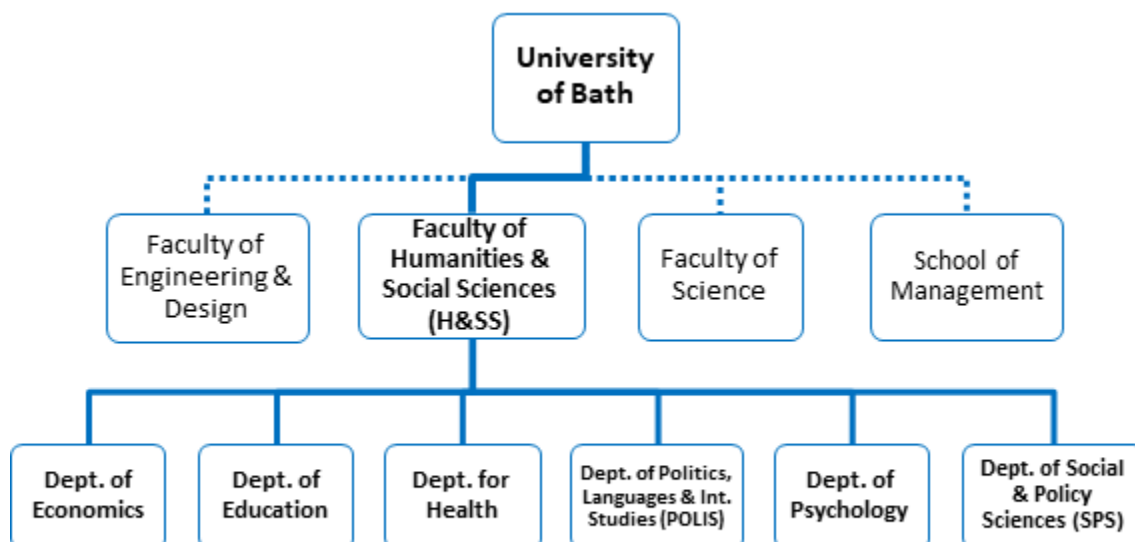

I wish you all a productive and exciting year.

Head of Department (Dept of Politics, Languages & International Studies)

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT 2022/23

Your programme is delivered by the Department of Politics, Languages & International Studies within the Faculty of Humanities & Social Sciences \(HSS\). The Faculty is one of three Faculties and one School in the University and comprises six academic Departments: Economics, Education, Health, Politics, Languages & International Politics, Psychology and Social & Policy Sciences.

Undergraduate and Postgraduate Taught (Masters) programmes are delivered by academic staff in departments, with administrative support provided by the Taught Programmes Team. If your administrator is unavailable, then please speak to any of our other administrators listed on our wiki page here, all of whom will be very happy to help you. If you have any problems, then please contact one of the Programmes Officers or Managers. Emails are managed via shared mailboxes to deal with enquiries from students and academic staff and these are regularly monitored by designated members of the team. You can contact the administration office for your programme by email at politics-pg-admin@bath.ac.uk.

The department has incorporated digital spaces as part of teaching and learning. Students will have access to a programme Moodle and Teams page to communicate with staff and students.

Meeting between students and staff will usually be held virtually. If you wish to arrange a meeting with a member of staff then please email in advance to organise a suitable time, unless the staff member has notified you of alternative office hours.

From time to time rooms on campus will be used for teaching and other activities; students will be informed via email of how campus spaces within the department may be used.

Please refer to the department website for more information:

ABOUT YOUR PROGRAMME

The MA International Relations, MA International Security, MA International Relations and European Politics Programmes and Gender and Politics offer a unique possibility for students to engage with a variety of issues in international politics. The Units offered at the University of Bath will cover a vast array of controversies relating to international relations, international security, international law, gender and politics and more.

The programme benefits from staff with an in-depth expertise on a variety of fields that are applied directly to the learning environment. This is understood as a space for staff and students to engage actively with literature and data on specific subjects, but also as a forum where both lecturers and students engage in lively debates and continuously exchange research to stimulate progress in the study of international politics.

PROGRAMME AIMS AND LEARNING OUTCOMES

MA IN INTERNATIONAL SECURITY (MAIS)

Synopsis and academic coherence of programme

The overall goal of the programme is to equip students with a broad knowledge of contemporary international security and the dimensions

- of political and military interactions between states and non-state entities in the contemporary world,
- of the role of state and non-state actors and of governmental and non-governmental international organisations in the new international security environment, and
- of the relationship between its different component parts,
- and an ability to critically discuss and write about them.

In its design and implementation, the programme reflects a commitment to the integration of staff members' strong research profiles into teaching, to the application of learning and to a diversity of approaches to learning, teaching and assessment (as set out in the University's Learning and Teaching Strategy).

Structure and Content:

Details of unit contents can be found from the Unit Catalogue from <http://www.bath.ac.uk/catalogues/other.html> - please note that these are updated in July of each year to list units for the following academic year.

The programme will be delivered in two taught semesters plus a dissertation, each worth 30 credits. In both of the taught semesters students have to complete three compulsory plus two optional units. For an up to date list of available compulsory and optional units please consult the MA International Security programme description.

The programme includes two potential intermediate stopping off points before the MA: a PG Certificate and a PG Diploma in International Security.

Part-time Study

All part-time students are expected to discuss and obtain approval for their selection of units at the beginning of each semester of study.

MA in International Security

Part-time students will be expected to complete three of the six compulsory units of the programme during each of their two years of study.

Part-time students either opting for the PG Diploma instead of the MA or not in a position to proceed to dissertation writing stage will be expected to complete all six compulsory units of the programme during the course of their study.

Part-time students either opting for the PG Certificate in International Security or not in a position to proceed to PG Diploma stage will be expected to complete at least three of the six compulsory units during the course of their study.

Educational aims of the programme

The Programme has four broad aims:

1. To develop a systematic understanding of knowledge, and a critical awareness of current problems and/or new insights, much of which is at, or informed by, the forefront of the study of contemporary international security;
2. To develop a comprehensive understanding of techniques applicable to the students' own research and to advanced scholarship in the field of contemporary international security;
3. To enable students to be original in the application of knowledge, together with a practical understanding of how established techniques of research and enquiry are used to create and interpret knowledge in the discipline of contemporary international security;
4. To develop conceptual understanding:
 - To evaluate critically current research and advanced scholarship in contemporary international security; and
 - To evaluate methodologies and develop critiques of them and, where appropriate, to propose new hypotheses for the explanation of a wide range of diverse phenomena in contemporary international security.

The PG Certificate focuses principally on aim (1), but offers students scope for some specialist application of what they are studying (aim 2) and, through the assessment mode in individual units (e.g., essay), the opportunity to undertake a research enquiry on a modest scale (aim 3).

The PG Diploma gives additional scope for appreciation and application of different methodologies of research in the study of contemporary international politics (aim 2); and since more units are completed by the student, it gives a more substantial opportunity to undertake research of the student's choosing (aim 3).

The MA involves a dissertation which meets aim (3) on a still more substantial scale.

The PG Certificate involves some attention to aim (4), but this progressively increases with the PG Diploma and the MA, as a wider range of research methodologies and their applications in contemporary international security is critically reviewed.

Intended learning outcomes (including teaching, learning and assessment methods, specifying those applicable for interim awards where appropriate)

➤ Knowledge & Understanding:	Students will 1. Understand the key concepts and theories of international security and the dimensions of political and military interactions between states and non-state entities in the contemporary world, of the role of state and non-state actors and of governmental and non-governmental international organisations in the new international security order, and the relationship between its different component parts;

MA IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS (MAIR)

Synopsis and academic coherence of programme

The overall goal of the programme is to develop fully trained and competent MA holders with a broad knowledge:

- of contemporary international relations and the dimensions of political interactions between states and non-state entities in the contemporary world,
- of the role of state and non-state actors and of governmental and non-governmental international organisations in the current international order, and
- of the relationship between its different component parts and an ability to critically discuss and write about them.

In its design and implementation, the programme reflects a commitment to the integration of staff members' strong research profiles into teaching, to the application of learning and to a diversity of approaches to learning, teaching and assessment (as set out in the University's Learning and Teaching Strategy).

Structure and Content:

Details of unit contents can be found from the Unit Catalogue from <http://www.bath.ac.uk/catalogues/other.html> - please note that these are updated in July of each year to list units for the following academic year.

The Programme includes three potential stopping off points: a PG Certificate, a PG Diploma and the MA. While in principle any of these qualifications may be targeted by a student who enters the programme, experience shows that the large majority of applicants opt for the MA.

A student who targets the PG Diploma or the MA and who fails, even after opportunities for re-sits, to meet the full requirements for those qualifications, may under certain conditions (see below) be awarded the PG Certificate or the PG Diploma respectively.

Part-time Study

MA in International Relations

Part-time students will be expected to complete at least one of the compulsory units of Semesters 1 and 2 within the first year of study.

PG Diploma in International Relations

Part-time students will be expected to complete at least one of the compulsory units of Semesters 1 and 2 within the first year of study.

PG Certificate in International Relations

Part-time students will be expected to complete at least one of the compulsory units of Semesters 1 and 2 in the course of their study.

MA IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS AND EUROPEAN POLITICS (MIREP)

Synopsis and academic coherence of programme

The overall goal of the programme is to develop fully trained and competent MA holders with a broad knowledge of

- contemporary international relations and European politics and the dimensions of political interactions between states and non-state entities in the contemporary world,
- the role of state and non-state actors and of governmental and non-governmental international organisations in the current international order, and
- the relationship between its different component parts with particular reference to European states' politics, policies and societies and of the politics and policies of the European Union and an ability to critically discuss and write about them.

In its design and implementation, the programme reflects a commitment to the integration of staff members' strong research profiles into teaching, to the application of learning and to a diversity of approaches to learning, teaching and assessment (as set out in the University's Learning and Teaching Strategy).

Structure and Content:

Details of unit contents can be found from the Unit Catalogue from <http://www.bath.ac.uk/catalogues/other.html> - please note that these are updated in July of each year to list units for the following academic year.

The Programme includes three potential stopping off points: a PG Certificate, a PG Diploma and the MA. While in principle any of these qualifications may be targeted by a student who enters the programme, experience shows that the large majority of applicants opt for the MA.

A student who targets the PG Diploma or the MA and who fails, even after opportunities for re-sits, to meet the full requirements for those qualifications, may under certain conditions (see below) be awarded the PG Certificate or the PG Diploma respectively.

Part-time Study

For PG Certificate, PG Diploma and MA in International Relations and European Politics

part-time students will be expected to complete at least two of the compulsory units of Semester 1 within the first year of study.

Educational aims of the programme

The Programme has four broad aims:

1. To develop a systematic understanding of knowledge, and a critical awareness of current problems and/or new insights, much of which is at, or informed by, the forefront of the study of international relations and European politics;
2. To develop a comprehensive understanding of techniques applicable to the students' own research and to advanced scholarship in the field of international relations and European politics;
3. To enable students to be original in the application of knowledge, together with a practical understanding of how established techniques of research and enquiry are used to create and interpret knowledge in the discipline of international relations and European politics;
4. To develop conceptual understanding:
 - To evaluate critically current research and advanced scholarship in international relations and European politics; and
 - To evaluate methodologies and develop critiques of them and, where appropriate,

to propose new hypotheses for the explanation of a wide range of diverse phenomena in international relations and European politics The PG Certificate focuses principally on aim (1), but offers students scope for some specialist application of what they are studying (aim 2) and, through the assessment mode in individual units (e.g., essay), the opportunity to undertake a research enquiry on a modest scale (aim 3). The PG Diploma gives additional scope for appreciation and application of different methodologies of research in the study of contemporary international relations and European politics (aim 2); and since more units are completed by the student, it gives a more substantial opportunity to undertake research of the student's choosing (aim 3). The MA involves a dissertation which meets aim (3) on a still more substantial scale. The PG Certificate involves some attention to aim (4), but this progressively increases with the PG Diploma and the MA, as a wider range of research methodologies and their applications in contemporary international relations and European politics is critically reviewed.

MA IN GENDER AND POLITICS (MAGAP)

Synopsis and academic coherence of programme

The overall goal of the programme is to equip students with a broad knowledge of gender and its role as a structural force within politics, public policy and international relations. Building upon a strong theoretical and methodological basis, it will address the dimensions

- of gendered patterns in political behaviour and representation;
- of gendered inequalities across institutional, domestic, public and political spheres;
- of the gendered implications of peace, conflict and security issues, as well as democratic and political transitions;
- and provide students with the ability to critically discuss and write about these issues.

In its design and implementation, the programme reflects a commitment to the integration of staff members' strong research profiles into teaching, to the application of learning and to a diversity of approaches to learning, teaching and assessment (as set out in the University's Learning and Teaching Strategy).

Structure and Content:

Details of unit contents can be found from the Unit Catalogue from <http://www.bath.ac.uk/catalogues/other.html> - please note that these are updated in July of each year to list units for the following academic year.

The Programme includes three potential stopping off points: a PG Certificate, a PG Diploma and the MA. While in principle any of these qualifications may be targeted by a student who enters the programme, experience shows that the large majority of applicants opt for the MA.

Educational aims of the programme

The programme has four broad aims:

1. To develop a systematic understanding of knowledge, and a critical awareness of current problems and/or new insights, much of which is at, or informed by, the forefront of the study of gender and political studies;
2. To develop a comprehensive understanding of techniques applicable to the students' own research and to advanced scholarship in the field of gender and politics;
3. To enable students to be original in the application of knowledge, together with a practical understanding of how established techniques of research and enquiry are used to create and interpret knowledge in the field of gender and politics;
4. To develop conceptual understanding in order to:
 - evaluate critically current research and advanced scholarship in the field of gender and politics;and
 - evaluate methodologies and develop critiques of them and, where appropriate, to propose new hypotheses for the explanation of a wide range of diverse phenomena within the field of gender and politics.

The PG Certificate focuses principally on aim (1), but offers students scope for some specialist application of what they are studying (aim 2) and, through the assessment mode in individual units (e.g., essay), the opportunity to undertake a research enquiry on a modest scale (aim 3).

The PG Diploma gives additional scope for appreciation and application of different methodologies of research in the study of gender and politics (aim 2); and since more units are completed by the student, it gives a more substantial opportunity to undertake research of the student's choosing (aim 3).

The MA involves a dissertation which meets aim (3) on a still more substantial scale.

The PG Certificate involves some attention to aim (4), but this progressively increases with the PG Diploma and the MA, as a wider range of research methodologies and their applications in the field of gender and politics is critically reviewed.

Intended learning outcomes (including teaching, learning and assessment methods, specifying those applicable for interim awards where appropriate)

➤ Knowledge & Understanding:

Students will

1. Understand the key concepts and theories of gender, particularly as it relates to politics and political studies;
2. Understand the key methods and techniques employed to research gender and politics;
3. Have knowledge of contemporary gender and politics issues and how they emerge and are tackled at the national and international level, and in the work of non-state actors;
4. Have a comparative understanding of gender and politics, both in historical and contemporary terms.

The PG Certificate will particularly focus on learning outcomes 1 and 2; the PG Diploma will have an additional focus on learning outcome 3 and provide a moderate focus on learning outcome 4, while the MA will ensure that students achieve all four learning outcomes.

Teaching and Learning Methods:

- Lectures and guided reading.
- Student seminar presentations with tutorial guidance and peer feedback
- Group-based practice in identifying and analysing contemporary problems related to gender and politics.
- Active participation in research seminar programmes of the Department of Politics, Languages and International Studies, the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences and its research centres
- Monitoring of individual academic development with personal tutor.

Assessment Methods:

- Coursework essays of varying length (between 2-4000 words); in-class presentations; and policy briefs/peer review essays.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A supervised MA dissertation of 15,000 words in length on a topic agreed between supervisor and supervisee.

PROGRAMME DESCRIPTION: STRUCTURE OF YOUR PROGRAMME

The structure of your programme year for 2022/23 can be found in the 2022/23 Unit and Programme Catalogues (see below). The content of the Programme Catalogues is correct for teaching being delivered in 2022/23 at the time of publication. Programmes and units may be subject to reasonable change (see Unit and programme changes in this Handbook).

UNIT AND PROGRAMME CATALOGUES

This is where you will find details about all individual units for the current academic year.

The Catalogues also provide links to the relevant areas of the University's assessment regulations, showing how these are applied to your programme of study.

For the online Catalogues, please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook. See also the section in this Handbook on Assessment.

YOUR TIMETABLE

Using MyTimetable, you can access your personal timetable and download it into an electronic calendar.

Your teaching on campus and any Live Online Interactive Learning (LOIL) sessions you may have will show in your timetable. Links to LOIL sessions can also be accessed through the relevant unit page on the University's online learning environment, Moodle.

When you start your units, you will be able to access associated online material at a time that suits your schedule.

MyTimetable updates regularly, so should there be a change to your timetable, it will be reflected in MyTimetable.

Full information is available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

PHYSICAL STUDY SPACE – 2022/23

As in previous years, you will have access to drop-in and bookable study space on campus and in the city for individual or group study. Information on how to book and any usage guidelines or requirements are available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

OPTION CHOICES

If your programme has option choice then information about how and when to choose your option units can be found online (please refer to Important Links and Information). If applicable, you will receive an email notification at the relevant point in the year when online unit selection is available. If you need to discuss your option choices, please contact your Director of Studies.

UNIT AND PROGRAMME CHANGES 2022/23

All programme and unit changes are managed through formal University processes. This is to ensure that changes are academically appropriate, properly supported and are made in a way that safeguards the interests of students.

We continually look for ways to develop and improve our programmes, aimed at enhancing your learning experience and maintaining high academic standards and quality. Such changes could be, for example, to update content to reflect latest developments in a particular field of study, or to respond to student feedback on delivery and/or assessment. Students who would be affected by proposed changes are consulted about them, either via their Staff/Student Liaison Committee or directly, depending on the nature of the change.

In addition, it is sometimes necessary to make changes due to unforeseen or unavoidable circumstances. The need to adapt to circumstances created by the global pandemic was a significant example of this.

This could also be for reasons such as:

- the accrediting body requiring changes to be made to the course, or,
- being unable to run an option unit because too few students selected it.

When this happens, we always try to ensure that the impact on students is minimised and that those affected are informed of the changes at the earliest opportunity.

Information on how we assure the quality and standards of your programme of study is available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

GIVING FEEDBACK ON YOUR PROGRAMME TO THE UNIVERSITY

The University is committed to continually improving its practice and aims to engage students as active partners in their education (The University of Bath Strategy 2021 to 2026). The three main ways in which your feedback will be sought will be through:

- Staff / Student Liaison Committees (SSLCs)
- surveys and evaluations
- the Students' Union.

Full information is available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

ASSESSMENT

Full information is available online. For signposts to important information on many aspects of assessment, please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

SUBMISSION DEADLINES

You will be informed of the deadline to submit your assessment during Induction and by your Unit Convenors. Information about deadlines will be available on each unit's Moodle page. If you are concerned about a deadline, please contact your Director of Studies.

All submissions will be online only via Moodle and you will receive feedback on the relevant submission folder.

LATE SUBMISSION OF COURSEWORK

To ensure fairness to all students, you will be expected to hand in all assessed coursework and dissertations/projects by a specified date and time, and there are penalties for submitting work after the specified deadline. If there are valid circumstances preventing you from meeting a deadline, your Director of Studies may grant you an extension to the specified submission date. Please be aware that an extension request needs to be submitted before the original deadline. You can request an extension in SAMIS under "Student Tasks", more information is available on your programme Moodle page.

WORD COUNTS

Coursework tasks will normally have a word limit or word range. This, and the penalty for non-compliance, will be confirmed when you receive an assignment. This is in order to give an indication of the depth and detail of work required, and to ensure that students' submitted work is comparable. You will be required to declare the word count for your work when submitting it for assessment.

If you do not observe the given word range or limit for the coursework task, for example if you exceed the word limit, then a penalty will be applied. The penalty that would apply should be stated in writing when the assignment task is distributed. You should take note of what is included when calculating the total word count (e.g. whether or not contents pages, appendices, footnotes, bibliographies and other elements that are not part of the main text are included).

The PoLIS Department applies the University policy regarding Word Counts and Penalties (QA16. 11. Word counts and penalties for exceeding a word count <https://www.bath.ac.uk/publications/qa16-assessment-marking-and-feedback/>)

"11. Word Counts and penalties for exceeding a Word Count

11.1 Written coursework tasks should normally have a word limit or a word range and require students to declare a word count with their submitted work.

11.2 Where a word limit or word range applies then the penalty for non-compliance with the word limit or word range should be clearly stated in writing when the assignment task is distributed.

11.3 Where a policy on penalising non-compliance with word limits and word ranges is not stated in accordance with 11.2 then the following default policy will apply:

- the marker(s) will stop reading the work once the student has exceeded a word limit (or the upper figure of a word range) by 10%. If a student writes substantially less than the word limit (or less than the lower figure of a word range) they risk not maximising their potential mark;
- for the purpose of calculating the word count, footnotes are included, whereas contents pages, executive summaries, tables, figures, appendices and reference lists/bibliographies are excluded.

11.4 Word count penalty policies should be consistently applied as stated.”

FEEDBACK ON ASSESSMENT

During your course, you will receive feedback on your assessed work. This feedback may take different forms, depending on the subject and type of assessment. You will be informed of the timing and nature of the feedback you will receive on each assessment, including whether the piece of work itself will be returned to you. For exam-type assessment, you may receive general feedback relevant to all who took the assessment rather than individual feedback. You can discuss feedback you receive on assessments alongside your performance and progress in your studies at meetings with your Personal Tutor.

The University requires coursework to be marked and returned within three semester weeks. Should there be a delay in providing electronic feedback within the 3-week timeframe, students should be informed immediately as confirmed good practice by our focus groups and SSLC on the topic. All marks will be tentative until approved by the Board of Studies.

Further information on the universities' feedback policy can be found in QA16 Assessment, Marking and Feedback.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

The University has a wide range of resources available to you to help you understand the importance of academic integrity and how you can enhance your academic writing and practice.

All students will be unable to progress beyond the next progression point in their studies until they pass the University's Academic Integrity Test. The test has a pass mark of 85% but you can take the test as many times as you need to.

When you submit your assessment, you will be expected to make a declaration that the work is your own and, where you have re-used your own work and/or used other sources of information, that you have referenced the material appropriately. The University uses a plagiarism detection service (currently Ouriginal), which searches the web and databases of reference material and content submitted by other students, to identify duplicated text. Where practical, all summative assessment is submitted to this service to check for similarities as an initial indicator of whether work has been plagiarised and an assessment offence committed.

Submission of your assessment to the Plagiarism Detection Service - Data Protection statement

The Plagiarism Detection Service complies with European Data Protection legislation. When you registered with the University, you gave it permission to process your personal data for a variety of legitimate purposes. This includes allowing the University to disclose such data to third parties for purposes relating to your studies. The University, at its sole discretion, may submit the work of any student to the Plagiarism Detection Service (in accordance with Regulation 15.3e) and may make, or authorise third parties to make, copies of any such work for the purposes of:

- 1) assessment of the work
- 2) comparison with databases of earlier work or previously available works to confirm the work is original
- 3) addition to databases of works used to ensure that future works submitted at this institution and others do not contain content from the work submitted.

The University will not make any more copies of your work than are necessary, and will only retain these for so long as remains necessary, for these purposes.

Please note that, if at any time the University submits any of your work to the Plagiarism Detection Service, the service will be provided with, and will retain, certain personal data relating to you – for example, your name, email address, programme details and the work submitted. Such data may be transferred by the Plagiarism Detection Service to countries worldwide (some of which may not be governed by EU data legislation) in order for the work to be checked and an originality report generated in accordance with the proper workings of the Plagiarism Detection Service. Personal data is retained indefinitely by the Plagiarism Detection Service upon submission of work. You may ask for your personal data to be removed by contacting the University's Data Protection Officer.

PENALTIES FOR ASSESSMENT OFFENCES

Academic misconduct can be described as 'the use of unfair means in any examination or assessment procedure'. Any student who is found to have used unfair means and therefore committed an assessment offence will be penalised. Potential types of assessment offence include plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion or unauthorised collaboration, contract cheating (including impersonation), fabrication or falsification, or breaching of examination regulations. Penalties for assessment offences depend upon the severity of the offence but may include failure of the assessment, unit or part of a degree, with no provision for reassessment or retrieval of that failure. Severe cases of academic misconduct, for example, contract cheating could lead to an Inquiry Hearing or disciplinary proceedings. Claims of inadvertence or ignorance will not be accepted as a basis for mitigation of a penalty.

If you are accused of an assessment offence, the Students' Union's welfare services are available to support you. You have the right to appeal against the outcome of the investigation.

Important information on academic integrity, the Plagiarism Detection Service, assessment offences and penalties, and support, as well as the Academic Integrity Test itself, is available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

IF CIRCUMSTANCES IMPACT ON YOUR ASSESSMENT ATTEMPT

Individual Mitigating Circumstances (IMCs) are the conditions which temporarily prevent you from undertaking assessment or significantly impair your performance in assessment. As such, the measure of their severity is not about impact on you, but the impact on your affected assessment. Full information about IMCs is available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook. It is strongly advised that you become familiar with the available guidance and related regulations.

ASSESSMENT PROCESSES

Assessment and marking processes at the University are designed to ensure that assessment of your work is fair and consistent, and that academic standards are appropriate and comparable between the University and other higher education institutions. This is achieved in a number of ways.

Marking: Assessments you will complete during your programme are marked according to:

- marking criteria (or assessment criteria) - these are the knowledge, understanding and skills that students should demonstrate in the assessment. They are based on the learning outcomes being assessed
- marking schemes - these are detailed descriptions of how specific numbers of marks should be assigned against individual components of an answer within the assessment task
- grade descriptors - these are descriptions of the levels of achievement required in order to get a result within a given band of marks (e.g. 70% or more).
- See Appendix 1 for Marking Guidelines at the bottom of this document.

Anonymous marking: The University has adopted a principle of anonymous marking in order to protect students and staff from bias, and the perception of bias, in the marking process. It applies to all assessment where practicable. It is not possible to mark all coursework anonymously as in some types of assessment the student can be easily identified by the marker (e.g. presentations, group work, laboratory work) or it might not be practical, or in the student interest, to do so. You will be informed when your coursework is to be marked anonymously.

Moderation: Both the setting and the marking of assessments are independently checked through a process known as moderation to ensure that questions test the learning outcomes and are set at the right standard, and that marking is consistent and fair. Moderation is conducted by internal examiners and also by your External Examiner (see below).

Boards of Examiners: Assessment decision-making at the University is the responsibility of Boards of Examiners established at three levels: assessment outcomes go first to Boards of Examiners for Units, then Boards of Examiners for Programmes, then finally to Boards of Studies. Boards of Studies confirm decisions relating to student progression, re-assessment, and the final award.

The assessment marks you are given initially by markers are therefore provisional up until the point when they have been confirmed by the Board of Studies (BoS) for your programme. An official release date is set when your confirmed results will be made available to you via SAMIS (the University's student records system). An academic appeal can only be made in relation to a confirmed result (see the section in this Handbook on Academic Appeals).

Scaling: All marks for a unit are reviewed at a meeting of a Board of Examiners for Units which will verify that the assessment process has been conducted appropriately and that the marks are an accurate reflection of the standards achieved. A Board of Examiners can decide to recommend a change to the provisional marks, based on evidence that there was a problem with the assessment which means the initial marks do not reflect the standards achieved by students. This adjustment is known as scaling and under these circumstances the marks of all affected students will be changed.

External Examiner: An External Examiner is someone from another University or professional organisation who is qualified and experienced in the field of study. At least one External Examiner is appointed for each programme or group of programmes. The role of External Examiner is an important one in assuring that assessment processes are fair, academic standards are appropriate, and supporting the development of your programme. External Examiners review draft assessment and samples of assessed work, and attend Boards of Examiners. They are members of Boards of Examiners.

Once a year, the External Examiners will provide a written report. University staff, including the Head of Department and Director of Studies, will look at these reports and a response will be made to the External Examiner's comments. External Examiner reports and responses are made available to students. Staff/Student Liaison Committees (SSLCs) also discuss External Examiner reports as part of routine monitoring activity.

The External Examiners for your programme are:

Examiner 1: Prof Jamie Gaskarth, Professor of Foreign Policy and International relations, The Open University

Examiner 2: Dr. Ryerson Christie, School of Sociology, Politics and International Studies, University of Bristol

It is not appropriate for students to make direct contact with External Examiners. If you are dissatisfied with the process or outcome of an assessment, and are considering whether to raise this either informally or formally, the sections of this Handbook on Academic Appeals and Dissatisfaction with a University Service or Facility \(Complaints\) give some more information about the University's procedures for student complaints and academic appeals. The University's mechanisms for student representation are designed to enable students to engage with the quality management process through which the University considers and responds to External Examiners' comments and suggestions.

Full information is available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

ASSESSMENT REGULATIONS

The University's New Framework for Assessment: Assessment Regulations: Phases 2 & 3 for postgraduate taught programmes ('NFAAR-PGT') specifies the rules governing students' progression from one stage of their programme to the next as well as for the award of degrees. The rules cover all areas of assessment, including supplementary assessment and the extent to which failure may be condoned.

If at any time you are in doubt about how NFAAR-PGT provisions apply to your work, please consult your Director of Studies.

This section highlights areas of the University's assessment framework for the type of programme you are undertaking. It explains the regulations that govern your assessment and outlines how the University makes decisions concerning your progression through your programme and award. Complete information is available in the NFAAR-PGT document.

The full NFAAR-PGT, and definitions of terms used in it, are available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

YOUR PROGRAMME AND HOW YOU ARE ASSESSED

Within a programme of study, there are compulsory units (i.e. those units in a programme which must be taken by every student registered on the programme), and there may also be optional units (i.e. those units students may choose from a range of options).

In the Programme and Unit Catalogues, there are links to the relevant appendices of the NFAAR-PGT which state exactly how the assessment rules operate for each stage of your programme.

The following points will help you to understand how the assessment rules relate to your specific programme, such as pass marks, averaging of marks and dealing with any failures:

Firstly, there are several references below to the persistent generic rules on the extent of any failures of units permitted overall. The rules are that you can only (1) fail and retrieve units, or (2) marginally fail units and have them condoned, within set limits. Breaking these rules results in failure of the programme.

- Your programme has Designated Essential Units (DEUs) which you must pass to gain the award you seek; even marginal failure in these units cannot be condoned.
- Your programme is divided into stages and follows the general principle that all stage assessment must be successfully completed before progression to the next stage is permitted. This means that, if you are required to undertake supplementary assessment, you will have to do so before you can progress further. You must also never break one of the persistent generic rules.

- Your programme has units that constitute the Taught Stage(s) Credits in a separate phase before the period in which you will do the Dissertation/Project type unit(s), as indicated in the table showing the structure of your programme. The Programme Progression Requirement to get from the taught phase to the Dissertation/Project phase is 40 %.
- Should you fail to qualify for the award of the degree of Master, you may be considered for the award of a related Postgraduate Diploma or Postgraduate Certificate (subject to your having met the requirements for one of those awards).

The normal pass mark for a unit is 40%. In some units, you might need to achieve a threshold mark in one or more component assessments in order to pass the unit overall. Particular rules apply to failure of units of the 'Taught type', or in the 'taught' stages. They are as follows:

- If you fail any DEUs, you will have to undertake supplementary assessment – unless you have failed so many DEUs that you fail outright, or the attempted retrieval would break the rule on how much failure can be retrieved.
- If you fail any non-DEU units badly (i.e. achieve less than 35%), you will have to undertake supplementary assessment – unless you have failed so many units that you fail outright or the attempted retrieval would break the rule on how much failure can be retrieved.
- If you fail only non-DEU units marginally (i.e. achieve 35%-39%), you might be able to progress without supplementary assessment. Whether you do progress will depend on the total credit value of the failed units.

Dissertation/Project units have their own special rule on failure: only cases of marginal failure (i.e. 35%-39%) will be given permission for attempted retrieval through supplementary assessment, and any resubmission that is permitted for marginal failure must be made within a specified period. Ultimately, you must pass a Dissertation/Project unit (or have an average of at least 40% for them if there are more than one) for satisfactory completion of the requirements for Dissertation/Project elements.

Your unit results are combined as follows to make overall assessment/award decisions:

- The Taught Stage(s) Average (TSA) will be calculated by taking the credit-weighted average of marks for all units required to contribute to the taught stage(s), or by taking the credit-weighted average of marks for all units defined as of 'Taught type' required to contribute to the programme.
- The Dissertation/Project Average (DPA) will be calculated by taking the credit-weighted average of marks for the unit(s) required to contribute to the Dissertation/Project stage(s), or by taking the credit-weighted average of marks for the unit(s) defined as of 'Dissertation/Project type' required to contribute to the programme.

- The Overall Programme Average (OPA) will be calculated by taking the credit-weighted average of marks for all units required to contribute to the programme.

CALCULATING YOUR DEGREE OUTCOME

A Board of Examiners will decide at appropriate points whether you are continuing to meet the requirements for the programme (including not breaking persistent generic rules whereby you can only fail and retrieve, or marginally fail and have condoned, units within set limits), and/or whether you have met all the requirements for your target award or any alternative that might be available. The outcomes will depend on both your performance in individual units and your overall performance. Generally, if you pass each of your units, you will progress and, in due course, be recommended for an award.

If you fail units beyond certain credit values, or you fail some too badly, you might break one of the persistent generic rules whereby you can only fail and retrieve, or marginally fail and have condoned, units within set limits, and this will result in failure of the programme - without any opportunity for supplementary assessment. (Further information on supplementary assessment is provided below.)

The criteria for making awards with distinction or with merit are described in the relevant NFAAR-PGT rules (paras. 78-80).

Supplementary assessment

'Supplementary assessment' is the term normally used for an opportunity given to a student to retrieve failure before starting the next stage of a programme, or by the end of the programme if it is a single-stage programme or the failed units are not Stage Required Units (SRUs).

Academic year dates, including the supplementary assessment period, can be found online. See Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

Each unit's method of supplementary assessment is shown in the online Unit Catalogue.

At supplementary assessment, students will normally have the opportunity to gain credit for units then successfully passed and to have the mark gained reported to them for feedback purposes, but a maximum mark of 40% will be awarded and used in the Overall Stage Average, the Overall Programme Average, the Taught Stage(s) Average, and any award calculation.

If you pass all your supplementary assessments, you will be able to progress onto the next stage of your programme and/or, as appropriate, be considered for an award. If you do not pass them all, the outcome will depend on your overall performance including consideration of the rules about passing particular types of units and the persistent generic rules (as set out above).

ACADEMIC APPEALS

If you wish to submit a request for an academic appeal you should refer to Regulation 17 (Conduct of Student Academic Reviews and Appeals), which outlines the process and grounds for an appeal against formal Board of Studies decisions.

You are also strongly advised to read the online guidance on Appeals provided by the Academic Registry.

Independent advice about academic appeals is offered by the Students' Union Advice and Support Centre.

Full information is available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

CORE UNIVERSITY INFORMATION

UNIVERSITY REGULATIONS FOR STUDENTS

All registered students of the University are subject to the University's Regulations for Students. The Regulations contain rules and other important information about being a student at the University of Bath, including regulations governing the payment of fees due to the University, student discipline, fitness to study and those governing attendance, conduct and progress in studies. They also form part of the formal contract between you and the University. You are strongly advised to read them carefully as they contain a lot of important information.

For a link to the full Regulations for Students, see Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

ACCESSING UNIVERSITY EMAIL

You will need to use your University username and password to access your University email account. Your username also forms your email address (username@bath.ac.uk).

The University will often communicate with you about a range of important matters requiring action from you, including registration, assessment, degree ceremonies, and matters such as tuition fees, via your University email account. It is a University regulation that you access your University email account regularly, even if you are out on placement or study abroad.

You therefore have a responsibility to ensure that your University email account can receive incoming mail and that you read your email regularly.

To increase the security of your University account you will need to set up Multi Factor Authentication (MFA) so you can authenticate your identity and access your email.

Once you graduate or withdraw from your course, you will receive an email stating exactly when your account will be closed. The email will give at least 30 days' notice.

STUDENTS' UNION MEMBERSHIP

All students registered with the University are automatically given membership of the Students' Union; however you have the right not to be a member. Information on opting out of this membership, and the Code of Practice for the Students' Union, are available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

DATA PROTECTION

The University's Data Protection Policy and Guidelines on Data Protection may be accessed via the data protection website (see Important Links and Information in this Handbook).

REGISTRATION STATUS

You will be asked to register online at the start of your programme of study and then to re-register at the start of every academic year thereafter until you have completed your programme. It is a requirement that you register when asked to do so, and failure to do so may impact on your access to certain University facilities such as Moodle. Tuition fees for each academic year are payable at registration in full or in instalments.

Regulation 1.1 explains the requirement to register, regulation 1.5 explains that the University reserves the right to terminate the registration of continuing students who do not complete registration in accordance with Regulation 1.1. Regulations 2.4 and 2.10 explain the consequences of non-payment of tuition fees. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

ACADEMIC ENGAGEMENT MONITORING FOR STUDENT VISA HOLDERS

Guidance and requirements on academic engagement for students who are Student visa holders, including the University's Academic Engagement Monitoring Policy for Student visa holders, and information on when and how to request an authorised absence, are available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

CHANGE IN YOUR CIRCUMSTANCES

It is important to ensure that the University holds your correct, up-to-date, personal and academic details within SAMIS, the University's student records database. If you change your address – either your semester-time or home address – please update your details online (see Important Links and Information in this Handbook).

You can make changes to the data that we hold about your identity including your name, gender, title, and the pronouns you use. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

If you develop or if there is a change to your disability, impairment, long-term health condition or specific learning difficulty, please get in touch with our Disability Service for advice on the support you may be entitled to.

If you are ill or are likely to be ill for more than three days, you must notify your Head of Department. Where you have a planned absence to undergo medical or surgical procedures that requires time off for more than three days, you can apply for a leave of absence from your Head of Department. Your department can arrange in advance for time off study and may be able to consider other options.

If you are considering suspending your studies, transferring from one programme to another, or withdrawing from your programme, please discuss your situation with your Director of Studies. They will be able to advise you on an appropriate course of action.

The financial implications of withdrawing from the University or suspending your studies can be significant. See Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

The Student Money Advice Team in Student Support and Safeguarding and the Student Finance Office will be able to advise you on the implications for fees in your situation and on how to suspend any student funding you are receiving.

If you are an international student holding a Student visa, you should consult the advisers in the Student Immigration Service about the implications of suspending or withdrawing from your programme. See Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

You will need to register any change of academic circumstance, including a change of optional units, with the University. Please speak to your Department or Faculty/School administration who will advise you on how to do this.

DISSATISFACTION WITH A UNIVERSITY SERVICE OR FACILITY (COMPLAINTS)

We want to ensure that, if you have a problem concerning the University, it is resolved as quickly as possible. The University is committed to continuing review and improvement, and seeks regular feedback from students. There are student representatives on the University's formal decision-making committees who can raise issues so that they can be dealt with promptly. The University is also committed to providing an environment within which students are encouraged to raise any matters of concern in an informal manner as soon as they arise. This often removes the need for formal complaints.

It is expected that most complaints can be resolved at an early stage by discussing the matter informally at a local level. If you have a problem concerning the University, you should bring the matter to the attention of an appropriate member of staff, who will aim to resolve it by informal discussion. If you have attempted to resolve matters informally but are not satisfied with the outcome, you may elect to proceed to the next stage by submitting a formal complaint. You may also submit a formal complaint if the issue involved is too complex or serious for informal resolution.

If you do need to make a complaint, there are procedures in place to deal with it, outlined in the University's Student Complaints Procedure. These procedures are designed to ensure that your complaint will be dealt with in good faith and that you will not be penalised for complaining.

There are separate procedures for requesting a review of progression or award classification decisions. See the section in this Handbook on Academic Appeals.

The University recognises that making a complaint can be stressful. Students are therefore advised to seek advice and support before making a complaint, from Student Support and Safeguarding, or from the Students' Union Advice and Support Centre, whose advice is independent of the University.

Full information is available online. Please refer to Important Links and Information in this Handbook.

APPENDIX 1 MARKING GUIDELINES

Indicative Marking Guidelines for Coursework, Exams and Dissertations

- (1) Knowledge and understanding of relevant ideas and methods
- (2) Ability to apply relevant ideas and methods to specific problems or issues
- (3) Originality, including ability to reflect critically on relevant knowledge and methods, and to develop clear and original arguments.
- (4) Clarity of expression, presentation of material and overall structure (including referencing)

DISTINCTION

Marking range: 80% or more. Outstanding performance that fulfills and exceeds designated learning outcomes

1. Knowledge and understanding of material beyond that stipulated in the unit
2. Near perfect application of relevant ideas and methods. Incisive analysis of empirical material, leading to strong and accurate conclusions.
3. Original and insightful. Potentially publishable as a working paper. Worthy of sharing with a wider readership.
4. Potentially publishable as a working paper.

Marking range: 70-79%. Excellent performance relative to designated learning outcomes

1. Unusually high level of knowledge and understanding of material stipulated in the unit.
2. Relevant ideas and methods applied clearly and correctly, with appropriate inferences drawn.
3. A high degree of analytical and critical ability, originality and insight.
4. Fully meets formal criteria.

MERIT

Marking range: 60-69% Very good performance relative to designated learning outcomes

1. Good understanding of relevant knowledge, with evidence of relevant wider reading
2. Clear understanding of relevant ideas and methods, with mostly correct application. Good use of empirical material to illustrate points and to justify arguments. No significant weaknesses in competence in the subject.
3. Strongly argued, with critical thought, independent analysis, argument, and/or application of theory.
4. Has met the criteria well. Generally shows good writing ability.

PASS

Marking range: 50-59% Good performance relative to designated learning outcomes

1. Identifies key issues and demonstrates some understanding of relevant concepts, with some evidence of relevant reading.
2. Competent application of relevant ideas and methods to empirical material. Provides examples to illustrate points and justify arguments. Conclusions arrived at through analysis, rather than just a statement of a position. Case studies have a clear purpose and message.

3. Well argued. Some critical thought. Logical organisation to the answer, Clear evidence of some “value-added” through application to empirical data, critique and/or logical exercise of independent judgement.
4. Has met the formal criteria. Reveals an ability to set out an argument or answer clearly and logically.

Marking range: 40-49% Satisfactory performance in designated learning outcomes

1. Some knowledge of the material provided and identifies relevant issues, but without evidence of wider reading. May reveal some gaps in knowledge and understanding.
2. Knowledge of relevant ideas and methods, but weaknesses in their use. Evidence used is relevant. Addresses the question set or proposed. Some ability to argue logically and to organise an answer.
3. Evidence of basic analytical ability or appreciation of the subject.
4. The candidate has met basic criteria but there are weaknesses. Generally shows adequate writing ability, and appropriate standards of English.

FAIL

Marking range: 30-39% Fail – no credits awarded.

1. Only partial knowledge and understanding of key concepts and ideas. Shows poor comprehension of the basic facts and principles. Prone to inaccuracy and tendency to irrelevance.
2. Failure to identify and use appropriate ideas and methods. Arguments lack adequate illustration or empirical support, or empirical material is purely decorative. Failure to address the question clearly enough.
3. Little original thought.
4. Weak presentational skills, inadequate or improper referencing. Fails to meet formal criteria in one or more ways.

Marking range: <30% Fail - no credits awarded

1. There may be some relevant knowledge, but it is muddled and demonstrates a poor understanding of the subject.
2. The answer may be totally or largely irrelevant to the question. Empirical material incorrect or incorrectly used.
3. No evidence of original thought.
4. Fails to meet formal criteria in numerous ways.
